PREVENT PET ABUSE

Some people answering "Free to Good Home" ads are loving, responsible pet owners. Many are not. If you are unable to find a rescue or animal welfare organization who can take your pet, you should charge the new owner at least $25 to discourage the use of pets for fighting, laboratory testing, puppy mill breeding, and other common abuses. Paying a fee for a pet shows good faith on the part of the new owner and demonstrates willingness to care for the animal properly. Get your pet spayed or neutered before seeking a new owner! Take the time to interview every prospective owner, ask for vet references and check them, and visit the home where your pet would be living. You'll be glad you did!
